Plano Stone Church

Plano, Illinois was once home to the Community of Christ headquarters from 1866-1881. Many of the early church leaders moved to Plano and the once small congregation grew rapidly. The Plano Stone Church was the gathering place for worship and reflection. It is one of the first chapels built by our faith community. Today, the Plano congregation is an active and welcoming community that continues to meet in the historic stone church and speak from the very pulpit where Joseph Smith III once delivered sermons.
